THE REBELLIOUS RADICALS

Revolutionary Speech of Thaddeus Steven

FELLOW CUTERRS: In compliance with a quest I come before you to give my views I the condition of the rebel States, of the proper mode of treating them, and of the pol-icy to be pursued by the government. During the long and bloody war through which we have just passed, I never had any doubt but that the loyal North would triumph; but since the surrender of the armies of the South inco the surrender of the armies of the South my heart has been saddened by passing events. I fear the the theory of reconstruction, and dread the result of such as experiment. By four long years of war we have overthrown the government established in the Southern States. Having subdued the armies which they arrayed against us, we have the right of conquerors. It is ours to establish government over those States, it is our duly one that those governments be, in average to see that those governments be, in every sense of the word, republican in form and apirit; that slavery be forever excluded, and that no elements of future weakness or discord be felt. To accomplish this the Constias conquerors to inflict condign panishment open these our vanquished enemies. They must be weakened, their property must be exized, conficated, and applied to relieving the nation from the barthess imposed upon it by the war. There are two theories prevail-THEER DAILY TRAINS EAST, VIA COLUMBUS

The STOVE STORE.

The STORE STORE STORE STORE To consider that the revolted States are estopped by their own public acts from denying the truth of this latter. Theory, The ordinance of secession adopted by each State that seconded declared their separation to be final. They raised as and armicle, and set up a claim to recognized them as bellingerents, blockaded their ports, and only claimed the right of excluding neutral vessels so far as our blockade was effective. We treated their armed cruizers as privateers, and not as ns our blockade was effective. We treated their armed craisers as privateers, and not as pirates; we received their soldiers as prisoners of war, and we treated them as such. For four years the government set up by them was what it claimed to be, a de facto government, recognized as such by us and by all the mations of the world. To say that during all this time these states were in the Union at to utter an absurdity. If they were in the Union no individual within their limits can be tried for treason except by the United States courts within the districts where the crime was com-

within the districts where the crime was committed, and by a jury of the vicinage. Jeff Davis could only be tried at Richmond for sending armies to lay Pennsylvania in waste. It is there that he did all he did in the premises, nor could be ever be convicted before an impartial jury chosen from that vicinity. A jury might be packed to convict him, but that would be as foul a judicial murder as was that of Lord Russel in England. This perincious theory takes away from Congress all powers to regulate or reconstruct. What right under such a theory, has any one to direct a convention to be held for remodeling the constitution of any one of the States. The sunder the most right executive to do this would be as a convention to the States. The sunder such a theory is a support of the executive to do this would be rank usurpation. The only safe plan is to within the districts where the crime was com-nitted, and by a jury of the vicinage. Jeff Davis could only be tried at Richmond for sending armies to lay Pennsylvania in waste. It is there that he did all he did in the prem-siderable length, the proposition advanced by him in the State Convention, to coofiscate the property of all rebels worth over $10,000 the bordes of Feseral tax-gatherers who are no property of all rebels worth over $10,000. The wealthy were the leaders. The poorer classes number nine-tenths of the population

Those in the revolted states who own over two hundred acres of land are about sixty or seventy thousand. By confiscating the property of these the government would have on hand three hundred and ninety-four millions of acres of land, beside the town property of wealthy rebels. This, be ustimated, would produce a sum over three billions of dollars, which be proposed to apply to compensating those loyal men who lost property in the war, to providing homes for the negroes, to increasing the pensions of soldiers, and to the payment of a part of the national dobt. He atimated that three-fourths of the debt might be thus liquidated. In regard to our debt he said : It is gonerally estimated at four billione; in my opin-fon it will go far beyond that figure. There is no use in belitting it. It can only de-ceive the ignorant, and those only for a time. It cannot deceive financiers. One half of it now hears interest, and the interest amounts to one bundred and twenty millions per year. The ordinary expensus of carrying on the government and the sums required for the army and navy will swell our annual expenditures to five hundred millions of dollars. The amount derived from internal revenue will diminish—taxation must be double what it now is to meet expenses. Can our people bear this? It will be a curse from generation to generation. We nitty the lax-ground From to one hundred and twenty millions per year. OYES! OYES!

culties to be encountered in carrying out his plan of reconstruction, as opposed to restora-sion, but hoped they were notices mountable. The power was with Congress, but there was danger that before it assembled irreparable injury might be done; and men are unreliable at best. Members might readily be debauch-ed by the plausibility of the reconstruction theory. Still, he had some hops. Mr. Ste-ress being averaging height that the very evolutionary Speech of Thaddeus Stevens at Lancaster, Pennsylvania-The President's Theories Declared Pernictous and existence of the Republican party dependence of the Republican party depend upon the rebel States being kept out of the Uzion for a while; thair admission would rander the speedy triumph of the Damocracy inevitable. With this he concluded.
